

NSW Occupational Therapy Services Outcome-focussed solutions tailored to your needs

In the instances where you have injured workers, it is vital that they are provided outcome-focussed Occupational Therapy to assist them in their Return to Work. Active Working Solutions provides Occupational Therapy services aimed at enabling injured workers to return to suitable duties as soon as possible.

Activity of Daily Living Assessments and Training

Whilst it is important for injured workers to have suitable duties when they return to work, it is just as essential to determine what duties and tasks they are able to safely perform in the home environment.

The AWS team of qualified Occupational Therapists are able to work with your injured workers to evaluate their capacities outside the workplace and provide training to cope with changes in these. Education is also provided, reducing the potential for further injury.

Additionally, AWS Assessments help to determine the need for home modifications and equipment to be installed.

Manual Handling Training

AWS Occupational Therapists are able to train your staff in effective Manual Handling Techniques that help to reduce the risk of injury.

In addition to ensuring legal compliance this in turn can decrease your premiums and down-time with injured workers. AWS Manual Handling Training ensures skills are developed in hazard identification, risk assessment and control strategies to ensure all risks are managed.

Driving Assessments and Retraining

When a worker sustains an injury on the job, on most occasions their driving ability is affected.

AWS Occupational Therapists are able to assess an injured workers driving ability and provide modifications and retraining when required. Employers can consequently improve employee driving ability (with modification if required), and reduce the risk of further injury to the injured worker. The chance of injuring another person through driver negligence, is also reduced.

Workplace and Home Office Assessments and Job Analysis

To reduce the risk of an injury or re-injury, it is important that the employees workplace and job is safe and healthy.

AWS Occupational Therapists are equipped to evaluate the workplace (whether these be on-site at the organisation or in a home office environment) to ensure the risk of injury or re-injury are minimal.

The assessment also covers general health and safety issues.
