

Team Development Programs

Designed to enhance the performance of your organisation

Client testimonial:

"Interlink Roads have contracted Active Working Solutions for 4 years in a variety of roles including coaching, team building, OHS, customer service and workers compensation. Their staff are genuinely interested in our business. The outcome has been that they have enhanced the skills of those who have participated in the training, saved costs and reduced our corporate exposure to risk. I would recommend them to any organisation seeking to better inform their staff, save costs and minimise corporate risk in an efficient manner."

Rex Wright, General Manager, Interlink Roads.

Can you envisage your team working in such a way that all your department heads will support each other to meet deadlines, take on the responsibility for working together as a whole for the benefit of the whole whilst developing an atmosphere where there is loyalty, humour, a friendly collegial atmosphere and a high level of performance? This is not Shangri-la - this is achievable!

One of the range of Human Resources services that Active Working Solutions offers to enhance the performance of your organisation are our Team Development Programs.

It is a simple fact that no organisation functions at its optimum level if the people in the organisation are not working well together. With the shifts and changes in the workplace and our general culture, more than ever managers require excellent people skills to ensure that their organisation thrives. More and more research points in that direction.

What AWS can offer to promote team development in your workplace is a group of professionals with years of people experience ranging from human resources, corporate coaching, training and psychology. We get to know your business and your situation, then design interventions that are tailored to your organisational needs. This can range from taking your team away for residential intensive training and development, to on site training and corporate coaching. The input we provide is based on examining your organisational needs and matching the program to the research. This means that the skills are relevant to the skills sets of your team.
